Packing and loading note

How packing is described on a Frovane quotation, and which fields are confirmed before the container is planned.

What the quotation states

- Bag format and net weight per bag, carton count and carton net weight.
- Film type and carton colour where the catalogue specifies them.
- Piece count per carton for whole birds and fixed-weight cuts.

What is confirmed per order

- Pallet pattern, pallet height and container load plan.
- Marking, label language and any importer-specific carton mark.
- Loading temperature, pre-cooling time and door-to-port transit assumptions.

Why these fields are not published as fixed numbers

Container loads change with carton dimensions, pallet height, destination rules and the mix of SKUs on the order. A fixed number printed on a website would be wrong for most shipments. The quotation and the loading plan are the documents that fix them.

> Keep the packing statement identical on the quotation, the purchase order and the shipping documents. A verbal change is not a revision.
